ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

According to the present invention, data for all or a part of the MFP devices connected to a network are obtained, and are rearranged as a list or are limited based on a variety of data obtained for each device, such as equipment data, apparatus data, network setup data, job states and employment statuses. As a result, data desired by a user can be provided in real time.